

Your Newborn Promise Project

A Christian Pre-Parenting Primer for Husband & Wife

Even more so than marriage, having a child is a profoundly spiritual passage of life. Now, a Bible-based study prepares couples to thrive in it.

Before tying the knot, Christian couples benefit from taking premarital classes. Before having their first child, wouldn't they also benefit from a pre-parenting study? Even more so than getting married, having a child is a profoundly spiritual passage of life for a husband and wife. They start thinking more earnestly about God and what faith will mean to their growing family. What kind of parents will they be? Will they avoid repeating mistakes from their past? How will they spiritually nurture a new life? Couples don't have to wrestle with these issues alone. A body of knowledge found in the Bible and from Judeo-Christian experience throughout the ages speaks directly to them about this major life event. And there will never be a better time for their new child. Research today confirms what wisdom has long taught: the first years of a child's life are the most critical time for cognitive, social, and emotional development, and are essential for establishing a life-long love for Jesus. Created by Graham Blanchard's editorial team of teachers, pastors, and parents, Your Newborn Promise Project presents five sections exploring humankind's innate spiritual abilities to love, remember, seek, question, and persevere, along with a discussion of five newborn facts of life. It also serves as the foundation for small group study, with the support of a separate guide and related videos.
